Editorial

Mr. Denis Sevaistre
Chief Executive Officer

It has been a long time since I wrote my last editorial. It was for Christmas or “happy new year”. But for this month, I have a superior motive to do it.

This summer was an exceptional one. The Holy Family Hospital never witnessed this numerous births in such a short period of time. In June, July, August and September we had more than 300 births per month, more than 10 births per day. In July we had 12 births per day. But these are just figures and statistics.

What matters is what these figures hide. They hide uninterrupted working hours, stressful hours that tire bodies and minds, exhausting hours of patience. They conceal working hours when everyone is on vacation, when the heat is oppressive, when the hours at home are heavier since children are not at school.

What these figures do not tell is the work of each one, without whom anything would be made possible. Our specialists, our resident doctors and all the medical team did not took it easy. Our midwives and nurses assumed a constant and steadfast presence; the support staff also took their share in the workload. More deliveries also means more Cesar sections, more babies in intensive care, more complications, but also more towels to wash, more meals to distribute, more social cases and invoices to deal with.

What these figures do not tell are the smiles of the women as they leave with their baby in their arms. This is also the pride of the fathers and the grandparents, because everything went well. This is the only reward for our well work done, for this "additional" human warmth given in addition with the recognized technical and medical quality.

If I am writing today, it is above all to express my gratitude to the hospital staff. The work performed this summer was considerable, both in terms of volume and quality. Each and all of them are to be thanked and congratulated.
